The action on ethical and peace processes is more prudent today than ever. Human existence and development are in question due to mounting conflicts in each region of the world as there is a lack of consciousness representing embedded ethical behaviour. From America to Australia and India to Europe there is a conflict story happening every second internally or externally. Terrorizing humanity has become rampant and life is at risk. The conference is an effort to create a more ethical, sustainable and peaceful world. A key question for the Conference was what needs to be done to reach to the development target set by National and International Economic Forums and how peace will enable this development

The annual international conference is held under the aegis of the Mahatma Gandhi International Research Centre for Conflict Prevention and Management. The conference is organized by Prof. Manas Chatterji, Emeritus Management Professor in Binghamton University, and Prof. Madhumita Chatterji, Director at ABBS School of Management
